IT RAGES FIERCELY FOR SEVERAL HOURS-LOSS $200,000.

The east side of the city was illuminated early yes-terday morning by a fire which nearly destroyed the large slaughtering establishment of Schwarzschild & singer sinughtering establishment of Schwarzschild & Sulsberger, occupying all the buildings in the block bounded by the East River, First-ave., Forty-fifth and Porty-sixth sts. Feveral of the buildings were destroyed completely, and the loss of property was believed to be about $200,000. The fire followed so upon trouble with strikers that it was suspected at first to be of incendiary origin, but later there was said to be no reason for such a suspicion.

Several of the buildings near the river were used tor fat-rendering, meat-canning and refrigerating puroses, and the firm had expensive machinery in ne East Fifty-first-st. station to protect the fat-indering works against twenty or thirty employes, ostly Hebrews, who were on strike. The strikers vere said to have made threats of violence, but they were dispersed easily, and the police grumbled because thought they had not been needed to protect the works. Everything was quiet about the works when olice returned to the station before midnight. At 1 a. m. a policeman noticed some men lounging in front of the slaughter-house in First-ave., and drove them away when the watchman said they were strangers

At 2:30 a. m. flames were discovered in endering works, near the river, in Forty-fifth-st. the kettles, the fat having bolled over by accident.

An automatic alarm was rung inside the works, and a oliceman sent an alarm from a signal-box in the treet. The fire spread rapidly, and a second and third alarm were sounded quickly. Within twenty tes all of the buildings comprising the fat-render ing and meat-canning works were in flames. In the niddle of the block were a number of sheds and other closures in which cattle were penned. The cattle inclosures in which cattle were penalt. The tasks were driven into Forty-sixth-st., and there was a stampede before they were secured in yards on the north side of the street. In the buildings fronting in First-ave the slaughtering went on for a time without interruption, because those buildings were not be-lieved to be in danger. Flames from the burning buildings rose high in the air, making a great show. dozen engines were at work in the streets, and the fireboats Zophar Mills and New-Yorker were throwing great streams from the river. Chief Bonner, who was in command of the firemen, thought the fire was under control before 4 a. m., and sent a few of the engines back to their quarters. An hour later a sudden change in the fire occurred. It had got into the buildings next to the meat-canning works, in Forty-fifth-st., and it began to sweep toward Firstave at an alarming pace. About 500 sheep were driven out of the buildings in time to prevent them from being burned to death. The butchers in the First-ave, buildings were driven away from their cork, leaving about 5,000 sides of beef in the slaughterand refrigerating rooms.

was rung by order of Chief Bonner, colling engines from the middle section of the city, as far Bleecker st. The firemen worked desperately for two hours and managed to save the buildings i First-ave. and most of those in Forty-sixth-st. from estruction, after those buildings had taken fire. at work and two of them were injured seriously. Fire man Hannigan, of Hook and Ladder Company No. 2, had his ankle broken by a falling shutter. nan Levin, of the same company, had his ankle broken in a similar way. They were taken to St. Luke's Hospitel in an ambulance. Battalion Chief Phischer, whose hand was cut severely by broken glass, and Fireman Sheridan, who had four teeth knocked out by a fall, remained at work. The fire was under control before 8 a. m. By that time the fat-rendering works, meat-canning works and several cold-storage buildings had been laid in ruins. The int-rendering works, meat-canning works and several cold-storage buildings had been laid in ruins. The buildings were old and not of great value, ranging from two to four stories in height. One new building in Forty-fifthest, near the river, which contained some costly refrigerating machines, was not injured seriously by the fire which had raged neecely in the rear and on both sides of it. The siangliter-houses in First-ave, were not damaged so seriously as to prevent the butchers from returning to work there before noon. All of the buildings in the block were owned to Schwarzschild & Sulzberger. A member of the firm said in the afternoon that the losses were covered by insurance, but he was unwilling to make any statement regarding the value of property destroyed, it was said that the total insurance of the firm was about $50,000. The loss on buildings in the block was believed to be about $50,000, and the loss on the contents of the buildings, including the machinery, was said to be about $150,000. Inspectors of the Health Department went to the ruins in the afternoon to give orders for the condemnation of the burned beef and canned meat. The work of removal may take several days, and disinfectants may have to be used before all of the refuse is taken to Barren gland.

The power-house of the electric railway has several inches of water on the main floor, compelling the abandon-ment of the line. The gas factory district is all under water. Great furrows have been made in many streets, and culverts, sewers and drains have been rendered worthless. The loss in this city is fully $75,000. In the farming district adjacent it is in-calculable.

GLOOMY REPORTS FROM WATER SOAKED CITIES

OP THE PRAIRIES.

Chicago, May C.—Rainstorms without a parallel in recent years have prevailed throughout the Western country for the last two days, and the amount of damage done is enormous. Traffic on the Rock Island road between Jollet and the Mississippi River has been suspended, owing to the numerous washouts along that portion of the line, with the result that the entire system is practically tied up. All through trains coming east have to stop at Davenport and Rock Island, and the westbound trains did not attempt to move out of Chicago before this morning. At Joliet hundreds of families had to quit their homes and go to the bluffs, fearful that the dam would go out, in which case the middle of the city would be placed under water. The factories have from one to nine ket of water in them. Bloomington, Ill., May 6.—It has rained almost incessandy since Saturday night, and the farmers have been unable to work in the fields. The Mackinaw River, Salt and Kickapoo Creeks are booming and the Peoria, Decatur and Evansville road has a bridge washed out near Lincoln, and is transferring passenters and baggage.

Galesburg, Ill., May 6.—Heavy rains last night mused Galesburg Creek to become a river, and families were forced to quit their homes by the rising waters.

Tecumseh, Mich., May 6.—The celery fields located hear here have been flooded by the continuous rains of the last few days and the damage to the crop will be large. The growers are unable as yet to estimate how much will be lost.
